

Procedure for registration with Inland Revenue

Timeframe: 1 Day

After the investor acquires a business licence, the next step would be to register with Inland Revenue in order to receive a tax payer number. This is done by either presenting the certificate of incorporation in the case of a company; completing a non-individual registration form in the case of an unincorporated entity; or by completing an individual registration form in the case of an individual.

Inland Revenue uses the information gathered to compile a database and issues the investor with a tax payer number.

Cost to the Investor: There is no charge
